him to accept. He did so and was elected. He used the opportunity of the position as he said he would. He saved considerable money, and every moment of his leisure time was devoted to study.

A STRONGER AND BROADER MAN. At the expiration of his term of office when he returned to the bar, he was noticeably a stronger and broader man than he had been before and at once took a higher position than he had ever occupied.

IN 1881 corruption in the City Government of Buffalo had grown so rampant that it was felt necessary that decisive steps must be taken to check it. The eyes of the community were directed to the city of Buffalo.

He was nominated for Mayor by acclamation and was elected by a majority of 5,000. He took office in 1882.

THE QUESTION OF PENSION. His attitude on the question of pensions, which is so severely criticised, has been explained.

He believed in a codification of the pension laws and a complete reorganization of the pension system.

He was a man of great energy and determination, and he was not afraid to stand up for his principles.
